Any interested person who is not in the position to accept nor to understand the risks associated with the crowdsale (incl. the risks related to the non- development of SECURIX.IO network and operations) or any other risks as indicated in the GT&C, should not acquire SRXIO, at this stage or later.

The SRXIO token, Bitcoin and Ethereum are not regulated and fall outside the scope of oversight. Similarly, exchanges in which our token, bitcoins and Ethereum could be traded and digital wallets could be used to hold, store and transfer the token or coins are generally also unregulated.

Virtual currency is relatively new and as a result, the legal framework is not completely clear and subject to changes in interpretation and subject to new jurisprudence. As a result, there could be uncertainty about the rights regarding the token and/or the output of your token.

Market conditions and the price of virtual currency, including Bitcoin fluctuate. It is uncertain what the Bitcoin price will be in the future. The value of Bitcoin could permanently be reduced to zero. This would the result in token holders being left with the SRXIO token having no value. Virtual currency and the SRXIO token can be subject to cybercrime. Therefore, it is possible, for example, that other people will obtain access to your wallets and that you will lose your tokens and/or any output received.

Virtual currency is highly risky, not backed by any tangible assets and unregulated under EU law, and do not, therefore, offer any legal protection. It is possible that it will one day no longer profitable to mine bitcoins, for example, due to a change of energy prices or applicable rules and regulations. There are operational risks. The business of SECURIX.IO depends on several circumstances.

Force majeure

It is possible that our Bitcoin mining operation will fail and that we will not mine any Bitcoins, or (much) fewer than we currently expect, for example, due to fire, natural disasters or other (unforeseen) circumstances. Cryptocurrencies make use of blockchain technology, which is based on cryptographic encryption. Because it is a relatively new technology, the risk that one or more blockchains will be defective is considerable. That can lead to malfunctioning and/or security breaches, and that in turn could result in loss or the loss of value of the cryptocurrencies that make use of that blockchain.

SECURIX.IO depends on the cooperation with Fintech Capital B.V. in the Netherlands. Any disruptions in this cooperation and/or a change of rules/agreements from or by the United Arab Emirates or between the United Arab Emirates and the Netherlands could have an impact on SECURIX.IO, the SRXIO token and the output of the SRXIO token. Bankruptcy of Fintech Capital B.V. or any circumstances in relation to the servers can have an impact on the business of SECURIX.IO and the output of the SRXIO tokens, although certain risk mitigation measures have been taken.

SECURIX.IO will do business with several counterparties, and the inability of these counterparties to meet their obligations (financial or otherwise) could have an adverse effect on its operational results and the value and/or output of the SRXIO token. Additional risks and uncertainties not known at present to SECURIX.IO, or that SECURIX.IO currently believes to be immaterial could also have a material impact on its business operations, the SRXIO token and/or the output of the SRXIO token.
